SUBJECT:

2011 Heat Relief Network

SUMMARY:

The Maricopa Association of Governments has developed two maps of resources to help make water and refuge available to vulnerable populations during the hot summer months. This activity supports regional heat relief activities. The first map shows where water hydration stations and refuge locations are located throughout the county, or where people in need can go for water and refuge locations. The second map shows water collection and donation sites in the region. Many heat-relief efforts have been implemented over the past six years to prevent people from dying from heat-related illnesses. This item is presented to alert member agencies to resources available throughout the summer months and to solicit assistance in making these resources available. The maps are being distributed throughout the community, available on the MAG website at www.azmag.gov and provided to staff at the CONTACTS shelter (hotline: 602-263-8900). CONTACTS will send outreach teams to people reported as being in need of assistance.

These efforts began in 2005 when record numbers of homeless people died as a result of the heat. The number of sites offering assistance has increased significantly since these efforts began. This year, there are more than 75 hydration and refuge locations across the region, a record number for the network. In addition, there is an increased number of water collection and donation sites for a total of 46 throughout the region. The maps are updated throughout the summer as additional partners join the network. As a result of the increased awareness and participation in the network, heat-caused deaths among people experiencing homelessness have been prevented.

PUBLIC INPUT:

A presentation on the Regional Heat Relief Network was given on April 18, 2011. Members of the public had the opportunity to provide feedback on the efforts that took place in 2010 and offer recommendations to improve on the network in 2011. Recommendations included adding additional hydration and refuge locations throughout the valley, working with homeless outreach teams to better distribute the maps, and working with emergency shelters during heat warnings to allow additional homeless persons to stay overnight. All of these recommendations have been implemented in the 2011 Heat Relief Network.

PROS & CONS:

PROS: Planning and prevention efforts will reduce the number of deaths from heat-related illnesses. Joint planning efforts ensure collaboration throughout the community and will help to raise awareness about the issue. Such coordination also uses resources more efficiently.

CONS: It can be difficult and labor intensive to provide information and prevention services to homeless people. It is anticipated that this will be an ongoing priority for the outreach teams, social services agencies and municipalities.

TECHNICAL & POLICY IMPLICATIONS:

TECHNICAL: Municipalities and the County have plans that are currently in place and are initiated by National Weather Service messages. Four determining factors are considered to initiate a message: temperature, humidity, amount of cloudiness, and expected duration of heat. There are three types of heat-related messages; heat advisory, excessive heat watch, and excessive heat warning. Each message will trigger action steps ranging from public awareness campaigns to temporary emergency shelter.

Two maps have been created to aid in the prevention efforts. The first map shows where each of the water hydration stations and refuge locations are located throughout the county. The second map shows water collection and donation sites in the county. The maps will be distributed throughout the community, available on the MAG website at www.azmag.gov, and provided to staff at the CONTACTS shelter (hotline: 602-263-8900). CONTACTS will send outreach teams to people reported as being in need of assistance.

POLICY: The coordination effort for water collection, distribution and respite locations is extensive and requires additional outreach and volunteer efforts. However, prevention efforts and planning are much more cost effective and proactive than responding to medical emergencies. Careful planning in advance will reduce the number of deaths, the cost of facing a crisis unprepared, and bad publicity received if a crisis occurs.
