

I-11 and Intermountain West Corridor Study

Public Information Meeting

The Nevada and Arizona departments of transportation are working together on a two-year study of the Interstate 11 and Intermountain West Corridor. Congress recognized the importance of the portion of the corridor between Phoenix and Las Vegas and designated it as the future I-11 in the recent transportation authorization bill, Moving Ahead for Progress in the 21st Century Act (MAP-21).

This corridor has the potential to become a major multimodal north-south transcontinental corridor, promoting commerce, tourism and international trade. It is proposed to include an upgraded highway facility, but could be paired with rail and other major infrastructure components, such as energy and telecommunications to serve the nation's needs from Mexico to Canada.
