MAG Modeler Passes – Age 91

- Clyde Hahn started his transportation career in the organization that predated the formation of MAG in 1967.
- Clyde was an avid learner and quickly learned all of the new transportation models at MAG. He was an inspiration to all at MAG about life long learning.
- His work ethic was beyond reproach. After a second knee replacement, Clyde resigned from MAG at age 84.
- Clyde was the "go to guy" when it came to coding the MAG models for important projects such as the MAG Freeway System.
- He served honorably in the Army Air Corps, flew 31 different planes and flew the hump over the Himalayan mountains in WWII.
- Clyde was an instructor in nuclear weapons, worked for General Electric after the war, then worked for MAG.
